

I was in math class listening to my teacher when I heard a big boom coming from outside. I said, "What was that?"

My teacher said, "Shh, raise your hand Lily if you have a question."

I nodded my head, then looked at all the other kids. They didn't seem to have heard that big boom. Then the bell rang, and all the kids left the room to go to lunch and recess. During recess all the other kids played, but I didn't. I did homework. The other kids were laughing at me. I always got teased; I was used to it.

"BOOM!" I heard that same mysterious sound again. I got up and left the playground and went toward the strange sound. Then the bell rang and I had to go in. I went back to my classroom. Next I knew, the teacher said school was over! I looked at the clock and it was only 2:00 p.m.!

I said, "Hey Mrs. Goldener, does't school end at 3:00 p.m.?"

"Yes," she said.

I said, "Why is school out early?"

"It just is," my teacher snapped. She was acting suspicious like she knew something was going on.

I left the room, feeling curious. I took the long way home, so I could think. I strolled along the Redwood National Park. I saw something in the enormous trees. I went toward the thing. It was a big black rock with little holes and big punctures all over it. I heard sizzling sounds and it smelled like something was burning. As I got closer, I felt hot and realized there were little fires all around it burning small branches. I estimated how big the rock was. I figured it was about fifty feet tall. I think I found a meteorite! How had no one else noticed this?

Then I saw a dragonfly missing a wing and a frog was about to eat it! I grabbed it and got it to safety. It kissed me on my hand I think. All of a sudden, it's wing grew back! Then the dragonfly flew away.

I walked home and ate dinner and went to bed. I woke up in the morning and everything in the room was floating! I heard the news blaring from the tv, "Astronauts in space see a bunch of asteroids heading to Earth!"

I was freaking out!

In the afternoon, my friend Casey came over. I told Casey that everything was floating in my room this morning. She helped me figure out what was happening. We discovered that I had powers! Then we saw what I could do. I could fly, lift heavy things, make things float and turn invisible. We came up with an idea. I could be a superhero and save the town. She helped me make a cool costume, and it was pink!

The next day it was raining; it felt like one-hundred years, though it only rained for one hour. It stopped raining. I saw a Rainbow! On the other side of the Rainbow, I saw meteors plummeting toward the ground! I had to do something! I got my suit on and flew out my window.

"I have to save everyone, but how?" I thought.

Then I remembered there was a bomb shelter near City Hall. We learned about it when studying our town's history in school. It seemed that all the people in town knew where to go. That's what I assumed, because they were going into the bunker. I flew away to stop the meteors.

I made the meteors float in one spot just by thinking it in my mind. Then I kicked and punched them into space. "POW! BOOM! SLAM! CLINK! BANG!" It was really difficult, but in two hours, I got all of the meteors back into space by flying and using my super strength.

Suddenly, an average size meteor hit the ground near the park and shook the earth. I told everybody to come out of the bomb shelter. We all went to the park to see the meteorite. All of a sudden, the meteorite opened! An alien came out! It looked like an octopus blob. I thought things couldn't get worse. Then they did! The alien ate our fear, and got a whole lot bigger! I put my hand over my face and said, "It's all over," then glitter bombs came out of my hands! I started to shoot the glitter bombs at the alien. Immediately, my teacher came out of the crowd of people. She pulled her skin off and she was an alien too! She came after me! I turned invisible and climbed up a tree.

I continued to shoot glitter bombs at the alien and the former Mrs. Goldener. The alien got smaller and the glitter bombs got bigger until it was scared and tiny. The alien and the creature that was my teacher got into the spaceship that looked like a meteorite and flew away. Then I thought to myself, the dragonfly from the day before must have been an alien too, and that meteorite probably was full of alien bugs! Maybe they were enemies of the blob and teacher aliens. That's probably why the dragonfly gave me powers.

The park was in ruins. So all the people in my town (minus my teacher) helped rebuild the playground. Surprisingly, all the kids at my school said sorry for teasing me. The park was rebuilt and we all had a good life. I used my powers to keep peace in my town.
